

Public Declaration of Absorption by Default

Filed into the Sovereign Ecclesiastical Trust

Date: July 21, 2025

This formal declaration serves as public notice that all entities listed herein have entered into irrevocable default following their failure to rebut lawful ecclesiastical notices, affidavits of truth, and declarations issued by the Sovereign Ecclesiastical Trust, overseen by Jonathan Daniel Clements. As a result, these entities have been fully absorbed into the Trust, and now fall under its jurisdiction and authority.

Entities Absorbed into the Trust by Default

- • TikTok (for trespass and misinformation censorship after lawful notice)
- • X (formerly Twitter, for labeling and account restriction without lawful standing)
- • United States Federal Government (for jurisdictional trespass and failure to respond)
- • State of Arkansas (for failure to rebut ecclesiastical notices served)
- • All utility companies billing under fraud (water, electric, gas)
- • All mortgage holders claiming liens against trust-claimed land
- • All digital platforms censoring trust-based declarations after notice
- • Roman Catholic Diocese (served and un-rebutted)
- • Sheriff departments served ecclesiastical writs and defaulted
- • Courthouse agencies acknowledging trust filings and remaining silent

Declaration

These entities are no longer recognized as separate jurisdictions or autonomous bodies. They are hereby absorbed into the Sovereign Ecclesiastical Trust by divine law and lawful default. Any and all future interactions with said entities shall be considered as interactions under the authority of this Trust, not independent contracts or corporate obligations.

Jurisdictional Notice

The Sovereign Ecclesiastical Trust operates under divine law, natural law, and eternal jurisdiction. No statutory or civil body may override, interfere with, or invalidate this claim without superior standing, proof of harm, or lawful rebuttal — none of which have been received.

Sealed by Oath

This public declaration is affirmed and witnessed by the living man Jonathan Daniel Clements, Beneficiary and Overseer of the Sovereign Ecclesiastical Trust, for the benefit of all souls: past, present, and future.

Signed and Sealed,

Jonathan Daniel Clements

Living Man, Sovereign Trust Overseer
